

INTRODUCTION:

The idea of the El Hassan Youth Award scheme (H.Y.A) was derived from the Duke of Edinburgh's Award scheme established in 1956 in UK. It spread to several countries in the world under many different titles. The El Hassan Youth Award scheme started in Jordan in 1984 as a pilot scheme in the Amman Baccalaureate School. The (H.Y.A) provides a big opportunity for Jordanian Youth between the ages 14-25 years to enroll in self - challenging, educational and non - academic programs in services, skills, adventurous journeys and physical recreation to achieve a balanced personality development for Jordanian youth.

The success of the scheme depends on the participant's enthusiasm and their understanding of the importance of its programs which initiates challenge in order to achieve maximum personal development. Furthermore, supervisors, assessors, instructors and coordinators who work on a voluntary basis constitute an important element in the success of the scheme.

Through proper organization and management they gear the participant's experiences towards achieving a real sense of affiliation to their country and consequently developing better understanding and cooperation with other age groups.

PHILOSOPHY OF THE SCHEME:

The most important strategy adopted by the scheme lies in presenting opportunity and challenge for the participant in order to achieve the maximum for themselves and their society, based on participation rather than competition.

The philosophy of the scheme incorporates the basic set of human values long sought by every society. The most important of which constitute the values of freedom, justice, cooperation, participation, love, affiliation to the country and the sense of social responsibility, better use of leisure time, better productivity etc; the values related to personal and social development progress.

The following ten points summarize the philosophy of the scheme:

- 1-Non- competitive.
- 2-Available to all.
- 3-Voluntary.
- 4-Flexible.
- 5- Developing, progressive and sustainable.
- 6-Enjoyable.

7-Its axis is working with the Award rather than winning it.

8-Balanced programs.

9-Marathon, Not a race.

10- Concentrates on Achievement.

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES:

1- To encourage participation rather than competition, and to measure the participant's progress in relation to personal capabilities rather than previously set standards of achievement.

2- To provide opportunities for freedom of choice of activities.

3- To provide opportunities for the handicapped to participate.

4- To bridge the generation gap by encouraging adults to participate in the overall supervision of the programs.

5- To promote the values of participation, cooperation, team spirit and social responsibility.

6- To reinforce the values of progress, affiliation, and active citizenship.

7- To widen the scope and the horizon of the youth to enrich their life experiences, both on the personal as well as on the national and global levels.

8- To develop the youth skills, abilities, and capacities in relation to fulfilling personal as well as national needs and aspirations.

9- To develop their personalities stressing the following aspects:

- Self reliance and self control.
- Perseverance and determination.
- Initiative on Originality (creativity).
- Social responsibility and dedication.
- Value oriental decision making.
- The spirit of adventure.
- Fitness of the body and mind.
- Life skills, professional skills, cultural skills, and family related skills.

THE SCHEME:

- The scheme is not an organization. It is a program of practical, cultural, professional and adventurous activities designed to be used by all agencies having a concern for the development of young people.

- The scheme and its programs are flexible enough to meet youthful enthusiasm and aptitude whatever their background or culture, however plentiful or limited their resources are.

- There are three separate award levels:

Bronze, Silver and Gold.

- For each award level, there are specific requirements.
